PaulTracy.com: Paul Tracy is a professional race car driver in the Champ Car World Series. He was the 2003 Series Champion. Paul has been involved in cycling at many levels for 20 years. He was involved the development of mountain bike suspension as well as being an avid roadie. You will frequently find Paul out training with the team for which he has been title sponsor for five years. His support has been invaluable.

Barry Lasko, DDS: Dentist. Barry and Karen Lasko have been supporters of cycling in Las Vegas for many years. Both Barry and Karen raced road bikes for several years. Barry has since moved on to competitive body building and Karen has become a very accomplished triathlete.

Smith Bros. Realty: James and Michelle Smith along with their father and business founder Jim Smith specialize on commercial real estate. They have a long and successful record of land and commercial building ventures. Michelle is a cyclist and triathlete.

Steamatic: Steamatic is an emergency water extraction/mold remediation company. Mark Keller, one of the partners, is a long time supporter if cycling in Las Vegas, both as a sponsor and road and mountain bike racer. You will often see Mark pounding it out on the Saturday Starbucks ride or in the mornings with the NU VISION riders.

Bruce Balch Insurance Agency: Insurance agent. Bruce has been involved in triathlons, running, mountain bike and road racing at various times in his athletic journey. He started the Falcon Bicycle Racing Team 18 years ago; this was a springboard for many of the teams that are racing today.

Gabriel Jewelers: Gabe Deleon has been involved in bicycle racing over 15 years. He has been a significant supporter of road racing teams and events for many years. Gabe, and his family have been successful jewelry retailers here in Las Vegas, which is awesome because he always willing to work with members of the athletic community. He probably loses money every time one of us shows up.

Winmill Development: Loren Miller is a successful commercial developer here in Las Vegas. Loren, an awesome drummer, and Bruce Balch play together in the worship band at their church, The Crossing. Loren's generosity is very much appreciated.
